EDITORIAL PREFACE

It is again with pleasure that we are able to present for your consideration this issue of The SEEU Review.

The Review is the main scholarly journal of South East European University, an internationally-oriented higher education institution located in the Republic of North Macedonia. The primary foci of the University's research and teaching are also those of this journal: history, political analysis, legal study, social sciences, computer sciences, and languages and linguistics. You will find these areas of scholarship well represented in this issue.

We remain proud to be a no-cost journal, free to both contributors and readers. In a time when academic publication is plagued by exploitative commercial publication, the SEEU Review charges no fees to anyone, and pays no one for the production of this journal. This means that all contributors have submitted their papers for review on an equal, transparent basis; the reviewers are not paid for their reviews, and are not permitted to know the identity of the contributor(s) whose work they are assessing. This process, by design, complicates the review and production process, but also means that acceptances and rejections are based only upon the objective merits of the papers.

The SEEU Review provides basic editorial support in the publication of this journal, but does not in any way endorse any of the views presented in these papers—the judgments and arguments made herein are those of the respective authors. Similarly, the SEEU Review operates on the basis of academic good faith, and has accepted these papers in the same spirit; the authors are ultimately solely responsible for these papers, which they have submitted as their own. We wish you a pleasant and elucidating perusal of the articles published within.
