Journal of Nationalism, Memory & Language Politics is a peer-reviewed journal published by De Gruyter Open on behalf of Charles University.

It is committed to exploring divergent scholarly opinions, research and theories of current international academic experts, and is a forum for discussion and hopes to encourage free-thinking and debate among academics, young researchers and professionals over issues of importance to the politics of identity and memory as well as the political dimensions of language policy in the 20th and 21st centuries.

Between 2007 and 2016, the journal was known as the Annual of Language & Politics and Politics of Identity.

JOURNAL SCOPE

- ▶ Trends in nationalist development, whether historical or contemporary.
- ▶ Policies regarding national and international institutions of memory as well as investigations into the creation and/or dissemination of cultural memory.
- ▶ The implementation and political repercussions of language policies in various regional and global contexts.
- ▶ The formation, cohesion and perseverance of national or regional identity along with the relationships between minority and majority populations.
- ▶ The role ethnicity plays in nationalism and national identity.
- ▶ How the issue of victimhood contributes to national or regional self-perception.
- ▶ Priority is given to issues pertaining to the 20th and 21st century political developments.
