REM – Research on Education and Media

Referee:
Date:

Title of the article:

______________________________________________________________________________

Is the work’s importance or novelty sufficient to justify the publication in a specialist journal?
Yes □
No □

Are the results in this paper supported by empirical evidences and/or a theoretical framework?
Yes □
No □

How would you rate this paper, according to its originality?
Very original (top 10%) □
Original (10-15%) □
Routine (20-25%) □
Poor/Unacceptable (bottom 50%) □

Please give details in your comments of any deficiencies.
______________________________________________________________________________
______________________________________________________________________________
______________________________________________________________________________

A. Empirical study: are the research design and methodology described in sufficient detail?
Yes □
No □

B. Theoretical-critical study: is the national and international scientific debate considered?
Yes □
No □

Please give details in your comments of any deficiencies.
______________________________________________________________________________
______________________________________________________________________________
______________________________________________________________________________
What is your recommendation?

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Recommendation</th>
<th></th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Accept – unchanged</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Accept – with revisions</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Reconsider – after major revisions</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Reject – fragmentation/lack of new material (see comments)</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Reject - lack of novelty/ significance (see comments)</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Reject – scientific reasons (see comments)</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Your recommendation cannot be used unless justification is provided. Please support your recommendation in your comments.

If you recommend acceptance with revisions you have to provide details to support this decision and you should outline any revision (which should be achievable within 10 days) and indicate any additional work required to support the results.

If you recommend rejection you have to provide details to support this decision. If you think that the paper could be suitable for publication elsewhere, please indicate the most appropriate journal and format.