Guidelines for referees

The reviewer’s effort and expertise are crucial in maintaining the high standards of the Polish Journal of Medical Physics and Engineering. Peer review should ensure that the novelty and quality of the research is properly verified before being published. It is also very helpful in improving the quality of the research and its description.

Please accept the invitation to reviewing only if you are competent in the subject.

Please inform the Editor about any potential conflicts of interest.

Reviewing has to be conducted in a confidential manner. The content of the article you have been asked to review should never be disclosed to any third party.

Please give your recommendation using the following categories for classifying the article.

a) Accept without any revision;

b) Accept after minor revision - after revision the paper will be accepted without additional review;

c) Accept after major revision – please identify clearly the parts that require revision and whether the revised version will require a second review;

d) Reject, due to poor quality, or being out of the scope of the Polish Journal of Medical Physics and Engineering.

The Reviewers are asked to deliver detailed and constructive comments. Please be aware that any recommendations you make will contribute to the final decision made by the editor.

Please evaluate the article according to its:

- Originality - Is the question posed original, important and well defined?
- Structure
- Title: Does it clearly describe the article?
- Abstract: Does it adequately reflect the content of the article?
- Method: Are the methods appropriate and well described, and is sufficient detail provided to allow others to evaluate and/or replicate the work?
- Results, Discussion and Conclusions: Is the interpretation (discussion and conclusion) well balanced and supported by the data?

If statistical analysis has been carried out, specify whether or not it needs to be assessed by an additional reviewer with statistical expertise.

If you suspect that the article is a substantial copy of another work, please let the editor know, citing the previous work in as much details as possible.
