EDITORIAL POLICY

The Polish Journal of Medical Physics and Engineering is owned and published by the Polish Society of Medical Physics. It is published quarterly in electronic version. The Editor-in-Chief, the Associate Editors and the Editorial Board are responsible for the editorial policies.

The journal publishes papers based upon original research.

The journal aims to provide authors with constructive, fair and timely reviews. Two referees are assigned to each manuscript received. The reviewers recommend the manuscript to be accepted for publication as is, to be revised, or to be rejected, based upon the scientific merit and technical quality of the studies reported.

All referees who review a manuscript remain unknown to the authors. Every manuscript is treated by the Editors and referees as privileged information. The referees will refrain from reviewing any manuscript that may involve their conflict of interest.

Manuscripts may be declined without full review if they evidently do not comply with Editorial Guidelines.

Authors are responsible for the entire content of their manuscript, including text, tables, figures, and references. The data, opinions and advertisements are the sole responsibility of the contributor or advertiser concerned. Accordingly, the publisher, editors, and their respective employees accept no responsibility or liability for any consequences of such inaccurate or misleading data, opinions, or statements.

ETHICAL CONSIDERATIONS

Manuscripts are accepted for publication with the expectation that the highest ethical standards have been maintained in the process of research and during the preparation and submission of the manuscript.

The authors should state that the manuscript has not been previously published elsewhere, except in abstract form and that it is not simultaneously under consideration by any other journal. Copies of any published reports that may duplicate material in the submitted manuscript should be sent to the Editor, together with written permissions of author(s) and publisher(s) to use any of their published material (figures, tables or quotations of more than 100 words).

Authors must state all possible conflicts of interest in the manuscript.

The authors submitting papers to the journal should give full consideration to the ethical issues of authorship. All persons who made significant intellectual contributions to work presented in the manuscript should be included as authors. It is assumed that all authors have read the manuscript, have approved its submission and have accepted responsibility for the content of the manuscript.
The persons who provided assistance, but whose contribution was not judged to be that of a co-author, should be mentioned in the Acknowledgments section.

Authors are responsible for receiving approval of their institution(s) to submit their manuscript for publication.

In the case of studies involving the use of human subjects, animals, or cell lines, the authors should specifically identify (in the Materials and Methods section) the ethical guidelines that have been followed in their research.
