

Editorial Policy

The Journal of Legal Studies is opened to a wide range of articles, studies, analyses and research developed in the following fields:

- Private Law,
- Public Law,
- Comparative Law,
- European Union Law,
- International Law.

Also, the Journal aims to open the way towards the promotion of an interdisciplinarity (the philosophy of law, sociology of law, mediation etc.) because law must be seen through the aspects that influence peoples lives.

We also welcome articles that materialize in syntheses of jurisprudence or the ones that aim at commenting Romanian and European jurisprudence.

The Journal dedicates a special place to the reviews of various specialized books published in Romania and abroad, in the legal field or to the ones with an interdisciplinary character.

The articles which will be chosen for publication must be based on a solid Romanian and foreign bibliography.

All papers proposed to the Journal for publication will be analyzed and approved within a three stages process:

STAGE I	This stage refers to the prior approval of the papers proposed by the Editor Coordinator of the Journal. The approval consists of drawing a Project of Table of contents.
STAGE II	This stage implies submitting the papers and the Project of Table of contents for analysis to two referees – members of the Scientific Committee. Each text will be accompanied by the list of evaluation criteria as presented in the Report of Appreciation of the Article completed by each reviewer.
STAGE III	The final opinion is given by the Editor of the Journal, taking into consideration the Reports of the reviewers.
