Disputatio aims at publishing high-quality articles on any aspects of analytic philosophy (broadly construed), written in either English or Portuguese.

All submissions to Disputatio should be made to the managing editor by e-mail to disputatio@campus.ul.pt. Submitted manuscripts should be prepared for blind review, containing no identifying information, and be sent as a PDF or Word document attachment to the e-mail submission. The e-mail should have the subject 'Submission: [name of article]'. The body of the e-mail should include the author's name, institutional affiliation, address, and title of the submission. A short but informative abstract (max. 200 words) at the beginning of the manuscript is also required, followed by 5 keywords. For full information on how to submit a manuscript, authors should read the instructions on the journal's website at <https://www.degruyter.com/view/j/disp>. Authors will receive an e-mail confirmation of receipt of their submission.

All unsolicited submissions to Disputatio are triple-blind refereed: the identity of the authors is not revealed to the referees, the identity of the referees is not revealed to the authors and the identity of the authors is not revealed to the editors. Without the prior permission of the editors, referees and board members will not show to other people material supplied to them for evaluation.

All material published in Disputatio is fully copyrighted. It may be printed or photocopied for private or classroom purposes, but it may not be published elsewhere without the author's and Disputatio's written permission. Authors own the copyright of their articles. Disputatio owns all other materials. If in doubt, please contact Disputatio or the authors.

Founded in 1996, Disputatio is a non-profit publishing venture. It is currently owned by the Centre of Philosophy of the University of Lisbon and managed by the LanCog research group. Since 2013, it has been published exclusively online, as a fully open-access journal. From 2017 on, it is published by De Gruyter Open.
